

Corporate Events Referral Rewards

Many companies are struggling to find ways to bring their employees together to celebrate great work or tighten social bonds to enhance teamwork. Sport & Social Club are experts on how to make this happen “virtually” during this period of physical distancing.

As our mission is to help keep people active and socially connected, we would love to enlist your help connecting with people who are the “fun organizers” in their workplaces. We want to reward you for your networking efforts. Here is how it works:

1. If you connect us with a decision maker at a company, and they end up deciding to book an event, we will pay you $50.
2. To do this, simply drop an email to the person who might be interested, and have them connect with us at rewards@sportsocialclub.com. Make sure they copy you on that email so we can have your contact info to arrange for electronic payment if they book an event.
3. First come, first serve: whoever gets in first with a successful referral for your company will be the person to get the $50.
4. Can you refer yourself? Sure! If you are the decision maker, we are happy to reward you with the $50 or we can discount the price of the event by $50.

Even though companies may be working remotely right now, we can still bring fun to them. People can book virtual team building events such as customized trivia, bingo, escape rooms, scavenger hunts, and more! This will encourage workplaces to connect socially and perhaps even a little competitively. Whether it is a single event over the lunch hour, or multiple event packages booked on different days, at different times, and for colleagues in different cities, we can help bring people together and get smiles on the faces of your coworkers.
